Please contact the Remote Desktop Connection client to log in with limited administration on Windows 7 and Windows Server 2008 R2. This resulted in us having a local user with limited access to Windows Server 2008 R2. I have searched the web and it looks like we need to set up the local RDP machine as a terminal server. I have read that it is possible to use this and then open a windows 7 terminal window with RDP and then set up a remote desktop account on the computer for remote login. I'm not sure if this is the best way to do this.
