I want to retrieve that value when there is only 1 value in the table and insert it into an SQL query. Here's a simplified example of the table: Now, when I do SELECT * FROM tblShelf, I get the following result What I want is for the First Name, Last Name and Last Updated values that are updated to be known. Is it possible? A: You need to read the current values to get the latest date and then compare that to the most recently inserted date. The most recent date and the last date on record will never match, so you can use a case statement to assign a column on the right side of the = operator. If LastName is the name of the column you want to know the latest last name, something like this: SELECT tblShelf.*, (SELECT MAX(LastUpdated) AS maxLastUpdated FROM tblShelf WHERE tblShelf.LastName = LastName) AS LastUpdateDate, IIF(LastUpdateDate = (SELECT MAX(LastUpdated) AS maxLastUpdated FROM tblShelf e24f408de9
